HISTORY BULLETIN

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS OF INDIANA IN 1833.

for NOVEMBER 1967

volume 44

number 11

Published Monthly by the INDIANA HISTORICAL BUREAU Indianapolis

COVER: The division of the State into congressional districts has been a matter of recurring interest. The cover shows the districting as it obtained in 1833 subsequent to the 1830 census which gave Indiana seven seats. The map by Ernest V. Shockley is copied from Courts and Lawyers of Indiana (Volume I, opposite p. 87) edited by Leander J. Monks, Logan Esarey and Ernest V. Shockley.

THIS ISSUE: It is hoped that the list of Indiana members of the federal House of Representatives will be useful to librarians and students of Indiana history. Your attention is also solicited to the recently created Historic Sites Survey and the change of personnel in the Indiana Library and Historical Board. Members of the Indiana Historical Society are invited to attend the annual business meeting of the Society at 3:30 p.m. on Monday, December 11, Room 409, Indiana Library and Historical Building, Indianapolis.

INDIANA LIBRARY AND HISTORICAL BOARD

INDIANA'S REPRESENTATIVES IN CONGRESS

Much interest was occasioned by the recent listing of elected officers of the State of Indiana (September, 1967). Requests have been received for a similar list of Congressmen from Indiana. In this issue we are happy to call the roll of those who served in the federal House of Representatives from 1816 to the present. For convenience the representatives are first listed alphabetically and then chronologically by the successive Congresses. Indiana's representation consisted of one representative at the time of statehood. We were allotted three members under the 1820 census, seven by the 1830 and ten by the 1840. Under the apportionments based on the censi of 1850 and 1860 Indiana was given eleven seats. We received thirteen under the 1870 census and held at that number until 1930 when our delegation was reduced to twelve. The 16th census (1940) cut Indiana's strength in the House of Representatives to eleven at which point it has since remained. Mrs. Shirley McCord, Historical Bureau Research Assistant, prepared the material.

BLAKE NAMED HISTORIC SITES SURVEYOR

Dr. I. George Blake, well known Franklin College historian, has been named director of Indiana's Historic Sites Survey. A comprehensive catalogue of significant sites and structures will be compiled. The project is to be administered in the Department of Natural Resources which also cares for state-owned historical properties.

John Mitchell, Director of the Department of Natural Resources, has appointed a policy-making committee consisting of H. Roll McLaughlin, President of Indiana Landmarks, Inc., and preservation officer in Indiana for the American Institute of Architects; Robert D. Starrett, Curator of the Indiana State Museum; Donald F. Carmony, History Department, Indiana University; Donald Mattison, Herron Art School; Theodore Davis, American Fletcher National Bank; and Hubert H. Hawkins, Director, Indiana Historical Bureau, and Secretary, Indiana Historical Society. James Kellar, Archaeologist of the Indiana Historical Society, will act as a consultant to the committee in relation to archaeological sites.

The compilation of the sites inventory is a necessary first step toward making Indiana eligible to participate in the projected federal program for the preservation and restoration of historic sites and structures. Dr. Blake has requested the cooperation of local historical groups in compiling the inventory. Questionnaires have been mailed to each society. Their completion and early return will be most helpful. If you know of sites that you think may be overlooked or if you live in a county not served by an active local society, please send a list of sites in your area to I. George Blake, Director, Indiana Historical Sites Survey, Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana 46131.

49TH ANNUAL HISTORY CONFERENCE

A rainy November 11 did not prevent a good turnout for the 49th Indiana History Conference. Approximately 170 attended the morning genealogical meeting at the State Library and Historical Building to hear Professor John I. Coddington discuss "Patterns of Colonial Migration." This presented a problem since, even with crowding, only 150 could be accommodated in the assembly room. The overflow listened from the corridor. An even larger audience attended the afternoon lecture on "Patterns of Post Revolutionary Migration" in the Mural Room of the ISTA Building. Plans are being made to publish the lectures.

Richard Haupt, Director of the Cincinnati Historical Society, delivered a perceptive and provocative discourse upon historical societies under the title, "A Look at Ourselves." His lecture, which was enlivened with touches of humor and apt illustrations, dealt with the metabolism and rationale of the historical society in our contemporary society.

Other sessions concerned archaeology—Dr. James Kellar spoke of "Yankeetown" and "New Insights in Indiana Prehistory"—the Indiana Junior Historical Society and medical history. Please plan now to attend the 50th Conference in November, 1968. A program appropriate to the anniversary is being prepared.

IHS ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING

All members of the Indiana Historical Society are cordially invited to attend the annual business meeting of the Society in Room 409, Indiana State Library and Historical Building, Indianapolis at 3:30 p.m., Monday, December 11.

VANDALISM

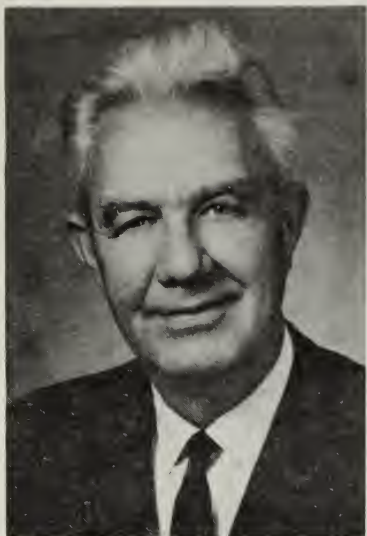

The Vandals were a rough tough barbaric people who overran portions of the Roman Empire in the fourth and fifth centuries. Their conquests were marked by such extensive and violent destruction that their name has been perpetuated as a synonym for the ignorant and malicious destruction of property.

One may have, if not sympathy at least understanding for the person who violates the Seventh Commandment under pressure of dire necessity. But senseless destruction, wanton destruction, simply defies understanding.

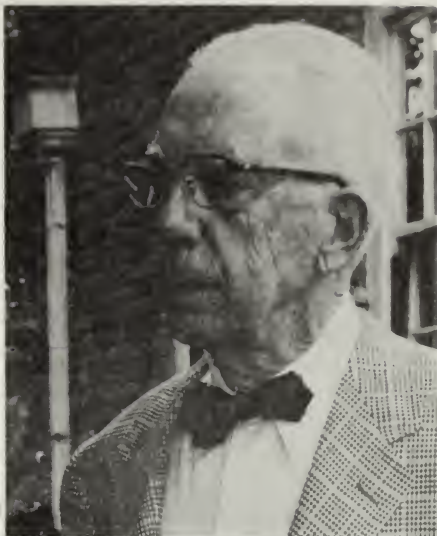

We have recently been advised of a number of acts of destruction and malicious damage that certainly deserve the label, vandalism. Tombstones in widely separated sections of the state have been defaced and broken. An historical marker at the side of a well-travelled road was deliberately damaged. Several valuable books dealing with local history had pages torn out. For every instance that has been called to the Bureau's attention there have, in all probability, been several unreported.

The history-minded people of Indiana should be concerned. What can be done? Local historical societies in areas suffering from such vandalism can make sure that local law enforcement agencies know of this concern. Vigilance is more likely if an outraged citizenry demands it. Consideration should be given to the possibility of seeking heavier penalties from the next General Assembly. Perhaps reward money could be found for information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals.

These physical evidences of our common heritage are precious. They should be protected.

John P. Goodwin

JOHN P. GOODWIN RESIGNS

John P. Goodwin was appointed to the Indiana Library and Historical Board on May 3, 1945. He submitted his resignation to Governor Branigin on November 1, 1967. This period of service, twenty-two years and six months, is unmatched in the annals of the Board. He was named to the Board by Governor Gates on the nomination of the Indiana Historical Society as a replacement for Cornelius O'Brien of Lawrenceburg.

Mr. Goodwin received his bachelor's degree from DePauw and did graduate work at Columbia. A veteran of World War I, he attained the rank of major. Through a long and active business career Mr. Goodwin was a successful banker and executive in Brookville.

Mr. Goodwin is a scion of a pioneer Franklin County family that has attained distinction in the fields of religious service, journalism and education. The family has been notable for its sturdy tradition of public service and good citizenship. Mr. Goodwin has strengthened and extended this record.

Mr. Goodwin was a leader in the movement to save the Whitewater Canal and create the present popular state memorial. He has served on the Board of Governors of the Society of Indiana Pioneers. He has been active as a member and an officer in both the Franklin County Historical Society and the Indiana Historical Society. He has generously supported many worthwhile historical projects. During his membership on the Indiana Sesquicentennial Commission he was chairman of the Committee on Libraries, Museums and Historical Societies.

Over the past twenty-two years Mr. Goodwin has been a valued member of the Library and Historical Board. Diligent and conscientious he has contributed good judgment, patience and good humor to the Board's deliberations. He will be missed.

JAMES MULLIN APPOINTED

James Mullin, Brookville attorney, was appointed as of November 1, to succeed John P. Goodwin on the Indiana Library and Historical Board. Born in Brookville in 1907, Mr. Mullin received his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois in 1929, a master's in political science from Syracuse in 1930 and the bachelor of laws from George Washington University in 1934. His interest in library work began with his employment in the reference division of the Library of Congress. He has been active in Indiana's historical program at both the state and local levels. It is a pleasure to welcome Mr. Mullin to the Library and Historical Board.
